Shermco Industries hires Robert Loveless as account manager

DALLAS – Shermco Industries has hired Robert Loveless as an account manager for its Electrical Services Division.

Loveless has 22 years experience in the electrical industry in the areas of construction, testing, business development and education. As a journeyman electrician, he acquired experience in both commercial and industrial installations. As an instructor Loveless taught both journeyman prep, electrical level IV and continuing education classes for the Construction Education Foundation.

“Loveless has a depth of electrical industry experience that makes him an invaluable resource for our customer base and prospective customers,” said Ron Widup, president of Shermco Industries. “We are very happy to have him on our team.”
