Mark Pustejovsky of Shermco Industries to moderate NERC Compliance Symposium at PowerTest 2010

DALLAS – February 15-18, 2010 electrical power systems manufacturers, vendors and thought leaders will meet at the 2010 PowerTest Electrical Maintenance and Safety Conference. The Conference will be held in Long Beach, Calif. at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Mark Pustejovsky, manager of engineering for Shermco Industries, will moderate a distinguished line-up of speakers at the North American Electric Reliability Corporation Compliance Symposium. The symposium will help guide people through NERC regulations, provide an overall understanding of the protection and control standard and highlight issues found during compliance testing activities.

“One of my key duties at Shermco is overseeing the execution of NERC testing standards and compliance activities for utility customers across the United States,” said Pustejovsky. “This symposium will bring professionals in our industry greater clarity on the subject of NERC compliance and PRC-005.”

The NERC Compliance Symposium is scheduled for Monday, February 15 from 2:15 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. PST.
