Shermco's Vidal Promoted to Account Manager for Wind Energy Market

Irving, TX: Shermco Industries has announced that Lailone Vidal has been promoted to Account Manager for key wind industry customers. She will be responsible for maintaining current relationships and promoting Shermco's expanded product offerings to new accounts. Based in the North Texas region, she will have direct responsibility for Southwest U.S. based wind operating companies at both the corporate and the site level as well as select accounts throughout the U.S.

Vidal, who formerly represented Shermco's training department for the wind industry, brings a deep background in electrical safety and technical skills and serves on several operations related committees for the American Wind Energy Association, helping develop recommended practices and standards for the industry.

"We are very pleased to have Lailone join our expanding wind energy services sales team. She already has great technical knowledge and strong relationships in the industry and we are confident she will be a real asset to both Shermco and the wind energy industry," said Don Gibson, Director of Sales for Shermco's wind energy services.
